FOUND SUNGLASSES!

This really seems to be a theme this year. Not one, not two, but FOUR pairs of missing sunglasses have been safely reunited with their eyeballs this week. UVA/UVB is no challenge for the ever watchful Co-op Campers. But maybe next year, we should pass out those straps to wear them around the neck.

We're all warmed up now... now let's pass the card...

MISSING: UNO NO MERCY

Last seen on a game table in the Rec Hall on Wednesday evening. If you or someone in your family has borrowed a copy of Uno (No Mercy edition) please return it to Corbin or Adrian some time today. Thank you!

SMALL DOG GETS NEW LEASH

Local auction reporter purchases waist-leash for small cow. When asked, "what was the most exciting thing sold?" he reported back "for me, the leash."

Early reports also indicate there was a bidding frenzy surrounding Harry's Happy Hour snack mix. Unclear if lot winner is aware of the collective origins.

Big thank you to James for calling the Auction! Final tally comes out as $814 raised last night. And 3% of that was from used cheese puffs!

FFFFFFFFFFFFOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOTTTTTTTT

With two more days of hiking, dancing, and trekking up and down Dining Hall Hill under your belt, now you're REALLY ready for those foot stretches! Join Rebecca in the Rec Hall at 9:30 to give the toes a rest and recharge before tapping the night away during the Talent Show.

THE ONCE IN A LIFETIME TALENT SHOW ACT

Because of an on-stage proposal 40 Talent Shows ago... you are reading this particular edition of the Twin Pines! Who knows what this week's festivities will reverberate into for Camp 2065!

This happened so long ago, cameras were not invented. No photographic evidence exists. Unless you buy the Sierra Chautauqua book sold in The Store... page 193, but you didn't hear that here.

TALENT SHOW TONIGHT!!

The acts we've all been waiting for... the one and only Co-op Camp Talent Show (this year, at least) is happening tonight in the Rec Hall at 7:30 PM!

We can't wait to catch that act you've been mulling over doing ... talk to Shira now to get on the lineup!

6 O'CLOCK TIP OFF

Remember tonight is Tip Night - let's show the Camp Sierra staff our big appreciation for all the hard work they've put in this week!

If you have cash on hand, bring to put into the collective tip during this evening's dinner. And if you didn't bring cash, you can always send Rae some e-money and she will make sure it gets added to the total tip!

HAPPY HOUR: SPECIAL EDITION

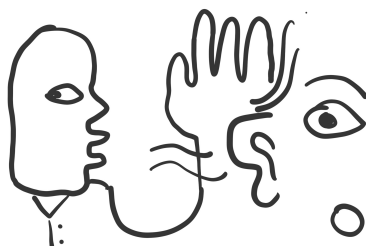

Tonight is the Shabbat Happy Hour at Circle!

Last call to get a swig of those beverages and dips that have been travelling to tables all throughout Camp this week.

SQUIRRELS: MAYBE THEY'RE SECRET GENIUSES?

Squirrels are surprisingly smart when it comes to remembering where they stash their food. Unlike humans, who often forget where they left their keys or phone, squirrels rely on an excellent memory to find hundreds of nuts they bury before winter. They use a combination of spatial memory (remembering landmarks like trees or rocks) and their incredible sense of smell to locate their hidden treasures, even months later.

But squirrels don't just randomly bury nuts all over the place, they carefully plan and spread them out in different spots, a strategy called "scatter-hoarding." This not only helps them avoid losing all their food to other animals but also accidentally helps new trees grow, since some nuts get forgotten and sprout. So, in a way, these little creatures are nature's secret gardeners! And maybe, just maybe, secret geniuses too.

RUMOR HAS IT

Rumor has it that seven auction items were successfully bid on and won by the original owners. They had donors remorse.

*Xoxo,
Co-op Confessional*

FROM AN ANONYMOUS CAMPER

MPD MIA?!? Maybe someone will step up for the Talent Show!

ASK AMY

Q: What's your favorite flower at camp?

A: That's easy! Mariposa Lily.

MOUSE, MOUSE, SNAKE

Is it a new game a la Duck, Duck, Goose? Afraid not. It's what happened when a couple of pint-sized uninvited guests showed up one night to Circle Up, much to the shock and chagrin of one unsuspecting Co-op camper. Unannounced field mouse numero uno arrived first, to inspect the goods in the garbage. Shortly after Brave mouse heroes - thank you!

his brother arrived to join the party. Fortunately, the camper was able to shoo them away, and with the help of two highly skilled staffers, the mouse hole was plugged up. But that didn't stop Mr. Snake from making an appearance the next evening hoping to find some mouse soufflé. Sorry to disappoint you Mr. Snake. Now go! And off he went. The only hope now is no mice = no snake. Fingers crossed!

CAMP EVALUATION

Come give your take on how the week went - the good, the bad, the dirty!

Join us in the Rec Hall at 11 AM to get together a collective feedback.

INTERVIEW WITH A SLEEPING BAG

Q: How do you stay so cozy?

A: It's 10% insulation, 90% friendship.

Q: Any advice for campers?

A: Zip up. Snuggle in. Snore like you mean it.

CHALL(AH)-LET'S GET IT ON

Prep session: 10:30-12 pm

Bake session: 2-4 pm

Thank you!

-Naomi and Maya

WHERE DID THEY GO, GEORGE???

Would you believe it? Three friends set out for a hike to Indian Pools today. (Names are being withheld to protect the innocent.) They made a pit stop along the way, to load up on some supplies. When they got back to the car, the two sitting in front, assumed the third was in the back and drove off. You can imagine the shock and dismay of the third abandoned soul as she watched the two drive off without her. Hysterical laughing gave way to frantic calls to the driver and to camp, to no avail. Eventually, the two dodo birds that drove off realized their mistake and returned to collect dodo bird #3, at the scene of the crime. All's well that ends well, as they say. We are still friends, but now we count off to make sure no one is missing.

MOUNTAIN WINDS (OVERHEARD AT CAMP)

"I'm a grown man, I can walk to The Potholes in these sandals. It's not like my mom's here."

"Tullamore Dew is the new spinach."

"I used to eat milk bones! But not because they tasted good..."

HOROSCOPES

Aries: Don't just hike, swagger. Let the trail adjust.

Taurus: Stability is overrated. Try the swings.

Gemini: You are the echo in the canyon. Curious, persistent and hard to ignore.

Cancer: Moon energy is high. So are your expectations of snack time.

Leo: Own your story. Just leave out the part where you screamed at the raccoon.

Virgo: Cleanliness is next to campiness.

Libra: Love is in the air. So are mosquitos. Be careful.

Scorpio: The stars whisper secrets. Don't repeat them! not even to the canoe, it tips.

Sagittarius: Be bold. That includes the tie-dye shirt.

Capricorn: Walk tall. Even if your boots are three sizes too big.

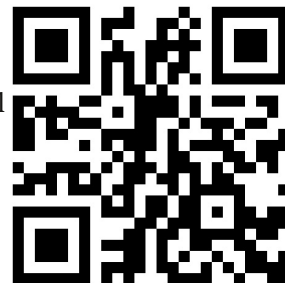

Aquarius: You are a mystery wrapped in a mystery burrito.

Pisces: Embrace your dreams. Or nap until breakfast.
